For Ladies: Managers of Their Homes and Chores

by Teri

Universally, homeschooling moms face a daunting task as they fit school into already busy days. Teri shares practical, proven time-management methods from her book Managers of Their Homes. The Lord has taught Teri, a homeschooling mom since 1985 with eight children, these simple, but workable solutions to the difficulty homeschooling moms have of "getting it ALL done."

Most families would agree that it is important to have their children pitching in to help by doing chores. However, striving for the achievement of that goal is another matter. It often leads to conflict, guilt, and failure. In addition, you will be introduced to a new concept in a chore system, developed by the Maxwells after many years of failure with other chore plans. From preschoolers to teens, each person can be a contributing member of the family while gaining life-long personal benefits that prepare him for life.

For Men: Family Devotions—Here's How Guaranteed

by Steve

Tried them and failed? Never tried because you knew it would be too big of a battle? No time for them even if you wanted to? Do any of these questions describe your experience with family devotions? Join Steve as he shares about the Maxwell family's favorite time of their day. He will give practical advice for achieving success in family devotions that he guarantees will work.

For Young Ladies and Girls: Experiencing the Joy of Young Womanhood

by Sarah, 25

Sarah will explore aspects of a young woman's life that lead to true joy. It all starts with the foundation—your relationship with Jesus Christ. She delves into hindrances to joy as well as practical aspects of it. Plenty of personal testimonies from Sarah's life are sprinkled into the session. Young ladies of any age who can sit quietly are welcome to attend.

For Young Men and Boys: Success or Failure—Where Are You Headed?

by Christopher, 28

Homeschooled young men have incredible potential for success in their lives—both spiritually and vocationally. There are tragic pitfalls that might appear innocuous on the surface to be avoided. In addition there are basic elements crucial for success in the spiritual world and in the business world. The goal of this workshop is to explore how the different aspects of a young man's life will affect his future. Young men of any age who can sit quietly are welcome to attend.

8:00-8:15 p.m. — Break

8:15-9:30 p.m.

For Parents: Keeping Our Children's Hearts

by Steve and Teri

This powerful session shares the joys and outcomes of our vital priority—keeping our children's hearts. Rebellion and immorality are common among teens even within the Christian community. What can parents do to direct their children toward godliness rather than worldliness? Tried and true lessons from parents whose children have not rebelled—this topic represents perhaps the greatest challenge every Christian parent faces.

For Young People: Evangelism—Effectively Sharing Christ & Loving It

by Christopher, 28

Charles Spurgeon once said, "Have you no wish for others to be saved? Then you are not saved yourself. Be sure of that." While many believers might have a deep desire to see others saved, they aren't actively sharing their faith. From overcoming fear, to studying how Jesus witnessed to the lost, to the missing ingredient in modern evangelism, this workshop is designed to equip, motivate, and encourage you! You'll hear real life examples that resulted from everyday opportunities—opportunities that you can also experience. Transform your desire to share into reality! Young people of any age who can sit quietly are welcome to attend.
